Good Afternoon,

The Commission is providing an update on the ongoing petroleum pricing and margin review. On October 3, 2025, a notice was sent to industry advising that the Commission had retained an independent expert, Jason Parent of Signal Energy Consulting, to conduct the review and provide a report of findings. We wish to inform you that the expert report is now available and posted on the Commission website here.

The Commission has also issued a public notice for the petroleum pricing and margin review, which includes a call for public submissions on this matter and applications for interveners. That notice can be found on the Commission's website here.

All documents and exhibits for this matter will be posted on the Commission's website here.

If you have any questions or require clarification, please contact the Commission staff at petroleuminquiries@irac.pe.ca or 902-892-3501.

Thank you,
